Richard Taittinger Gallery: Heaven Carrier

Newcomer Richard Taittinger Gallery's latest show features new work by the Russian artist collective, Recycle Group.

The Recycle Group is Andrey Blokhin and Georgy Kuznetsov. The artists work with repurposed electrical equipment and industrial material to express concern for humanity's increasing dependence on digital technologies including social media. (Including tools for getting the word out about gallery shows, like this one.) Recycle Group's work addresses the increasing amount of material waste as a byproduct of widespread consumerism. The exhibition marks The Recycle Group's first solo exhibition in the U.S.
